

Ron Johnson has joined Solar Technology, Inc. as Vice President-Sales and Marketing.

Ron was formerly president of MMD Equipment in Swedesboro, New Jersey and is a 30-year veteran of the construction equipment and highway safety industries. He most recently served as Vice President of Sales and Marketing for Wanco, Inc. and also worked for Allmand Brothers, Inc. in a similar sales management capacity.

He will eventually assume responsibility for Solar Tech's sales and marketing effort, both domestic and international. He replaces John Hayes who will devote 100% of his efforts to the Agile Displays division of Solar Technology, Inc.

A native of New Orleans, Ron has lived in the Philadelphia area since 1994. He will work out of Solar Tech's Allentown, PA headquarters.

"I really feel that Solar Technology is poised for phenomenal growth," said Johnson. "A lot of companies grow their sales without investing in a supporting infrastructure. But, Solar Tech built a strong foundation and now has a solid base on which to expand its market share. There is no doubt that Solar Tech offers the best opportunity to achieve my professional goals and objectives."
